

Transgender Awareness Week Spotlight:

J Aprileo

J Aprileo
they/them/theirs

J is an American non-binary activist and travel blogger online. They are the creator of ComfyFat.com, a blog dedicated to body positivity and self love, comfort living as a fat person, discussions on gender identity, and all the intersections in between. Passionate about travel and accessibility as a fat person, body liberation, and queer rights, the aim of their blog is to share their own knowledge, experiences, and resources as a fat queer person with the rest of the world. They discuss challenging the unrealistic expectations and beauty standards that are put on fat people in a raw and genuine way, as well as the difficulties they face as a trans person.

